NO WORK.

City Prisoners Sit In Idleness.

Mayor Doyle Has So Ordered It.

The Remorse of Chas. Bristow, Agent.

Tales of Troubles From His Honor's Court.

"None of these men are to be sent out to work on the streets. They must be held until fine and costs are paid," said Mayor W. B. Doyle as he adjourned Police Court Saturday. He did not say whether he thought the streets were so clean that their services were not needed, or whether he thought the men were too nice to be put at such work. Maybe he is afraid they might escape.

Charles Bristow, high collar, spectacles, umbrella and cob pipe, an agent by profession, was arrested on charge of intoxication Friday evening.

"I had been drinking," he told the court. "I am sorry for it."

"The usual fine, $2 and costs," said His Honor.

"Yes, I'm guilty," said Charles Taylor, who lives in the "City of Nova," in Ashland county, he said. He had been visiting relatives here and they will have to pay $2 and costs for him unless he pays it himself.

"Scarcely worth mentioning—it was years ago," said Patrick Brady, when asked if he had ever before been arrested. His fine was $2 and costs.

"It is enough to make some men drunk," commented His Honor when Joseph Proctor protested that he had had but three drinks of whisky. Proctor also said that he was subject to epileptic fits and out of the abundance of his sympathy the Mayor let him down with $2 and costs, "the usual fine."

Chas. Aldridge was too drunk to appear in court, the prisonkeeper said.

While gathered together a book and gold cuff buttons were presented by Past President Mrs. Lovina C. Toy, in behalf of the members of the W. V. R. U., and an elegant gold watch was given him from his mother. These presentations and the pleasing response from the young man added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.
